17. At said time and place, Defendant Norman failed to maintain control of the commercial vehicle.

18. At the aforesaid time and place, Defendant Norman negligently operated the tractor-trailer unit, causing it to collide with the rear of vehicle operated by Carl Fanning, causing it to rotate and being struck by Defendant's truck and trailer several times, and causing Mr. Fanning's vehicle to travel in the opposite direction on I-85 North.

19. As a proximate consequence of Defendant Norman's negligence, Plaintiff Carl Fanning was injured and damaged as follows: he suffered physical pain and will continue to do so in the future; he suffered bodily injuries; he was required to seek medical treatment for his injuries; he was required to undergo neck surgery; he incurred medical expenses and will incur medical expenses in the future; he has lost income and will continue to do so; he suffered mental anguish and will continue to do so in the future; his vehicle was damaged; and he has been otherwise injured and damaged.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs demand judgment against Defendants National Carriers and Norman in such an amount of compensatory damages as a jury may award, and costs of this action.

Count II

20. Plaintiffs reallege paragraphs 1 through 12 of the Complaint as if set out here in full.

21. At the aforesaid time and place, Defendant Norman wantonly operated the tractor-trailer unit, causing it to collide with the rear of vehicle operated by Carl Fanning, causing it to rotate and being struck by Defendant's truck and trailer several
